Coun. Dan Vandal says he'd like to see a public plaza in the restaurant space on the Esplanade Riel bridge.

What should go on Esplanade Riel bridge?

Any takers? City councillor wants public plaza, mayor hopes there are lots of ideas

As Winnipeg gets one step closer on a decision regarding the future use of the restaurant space on the Esplanade Riel bridge, St. Boniface's city councillor has weighed in with his vision: A public plaza.

Coun. Dan Vandal told reporters following Wednesday's council meeting that city officials need to "get out of that little box that it's got to be a restaurant."

"I think it's got to be a public plaza, where people can go 12 months out of 12, to buy a coffee, buy a croissant, to watch the river flow, watch the boats, watch the skaters," said Vandal, adding the possibility that The Forks could operate it.

"I'd love to see the Jazz Fest on there for 10 days in June, I think that would be fantastic. And I think you can do those partnerships with the festival groups, the artistic groups."

"You got to enjoy it for the public amenity that it is, especially when the Human Rights museum opens up in 18 months, and what a wonderful place to visit after a visit to the Human Rights museum."

The City of Winnipeg called for expressions of interest (EOI) to be submitted by 4 p.m. on Jan. 31.

Vandal said this wasn't a call for proposals and nothing binds the city to accept one of the expressions of interest presented.

For his part, Mayor Sam Katz said he'd wait until submissions close before making a more definitive pronouncement on what he'd like to see in that space.

"I'm hoping to see lots of people come forward, I'm not sure that's going to be the case but we'll find out, no point speculating when we'll know very shortly," added Katz.

"It's very difficult to run a restaurant year-round in that location."

Assiniboia Downs. Owner surprised by takeover proposal

The head of the group that owns the Assiniboia Downs feels left in the backstretch after learning about a provincially supported proposal to transfer ownership of the racetrack through local media.

The Red River Exhibition Association (RREA) wants to take over the 55-year-old facility and spend at least $5 million to convert it into an "entertainment destination centre."

While the proposal has the nod from the province, which injects about $9.5 million into the track every year, no one invited the track's owners at the Manitoba Jockey Club (MJC) to the discussion.

"Something like this kind of pulls the feet from under you," said MJC president Harvey Warner Wednesday. "Obviously it's not something that they had a casual meeting about — there's clearly been a lot of meetings back and forth."

"If you were an employee here how would you feel?"

Garth Rogerson, CEO of the RREA, told Metro an increase in attendance and revenue at the track would allow the province to cut its annual contribution by $5 million.

"What we're suggesting is they should transfer ownership to a steward who has more financial means to be able to run it as a sustainable operation," he said, adding that on top of upgrades he'd like to bring in events like motorcross, concerts and tradeshow. "There's a million things that could be done there."

Manitoba's minister of finance, Stan Struthers, confirmed he backs the proposal — and any possible savings to this year's budget — and will meet with the two groups as early as Thursday.

Industrial blaze

An industrial building caught fire around 9 a.m. on Wednesday on Sutherland Avenue. Firefighters used a ladder and chainsaw to open up the metal wall to get to the fire. There were no reported injuries. As of press time, a cause was unknown and no damage estimate available. SHANE GIBSON/METRO

Possible bomb threat

Police and RCMP are expected to give more information Thursday after they closed down Wall Street Wednesday morning. A witness told Metro he was told there was a bomb threat. Police would not confirm this, but the RCMP bomb squad truck was on site. SHANE GIBSON/METRO

Mayes in, Havixbeck out in cabinet shuffle

Vocal critic removed. Mayor Katz criticizes ousted councillor

BERNICE PONTANILLA
bernice.pontanilla@metronews.ca

A vocal critic on Mayor Sam Katz's powerful executive policy committee has lost her seat at the "big table."

Coun. Paula Havixbeck (Charleswood-Tuxedo) has been replaced by St. Vital Coun. Brian Mayes, effective yesterday.

Katz didn't mince words when it came to his reasons for the shuffle to his cabinet, saying Havixbeck championed proposals and then abandoned them. He listed the police review and the $600,000 increase to Councilors' Representation Allowance (CRA) as examples.

"It was Coun. Havixbeck who basically was the champion of that, to increase the CRA and, as you know, then once again decided to have a complete change of heart," said Katz.

Mayes, who found out about his appointment to EPC on Wednesday just before lunch, said he believes it was his "measured approach" that got him noticed.

"It's nice to have a seat at the big table, you get more input into the direction of the city and the direction of your ward," he said.

Mayes said he's had a good working relationship with Havixbeck and called this situation "unfortunate."

Havixbeck, who did not respond to an interview request by press time, had become increasingly vocal in her criticisms of city hall policies and practices, including the cost overruns on the fire hall being built near Polo Park, the $600,000 increase to councilors' ward allowances and the 3.87 per cent increase to property taxes.

She voted against both the 2013 operating and capital budgets during Tuesday's special meeting of city council, saying that she was "no one's yes person."

Coun. Brian Mayes replaces Coun. Paula Havixbeck on the executive policy committee, Mayor Katz announced on Wednesday. BERNICE PONTANILLA/METRO

Kelekis Way. City honours iconic restaurant on its busy last day of business

As customers packed into Kelekis Restaurant for one last plate of skinny fries on the business's last day Wednesday, Mayor Sam Katz and a bevy of city councilors dropped by as well to pay tribute to the North End icon.

To salute the restaurant and its 81 years of business, the city is giving the stretch of Main Street in front of the eatery a honorary new name: Kelekis Way.

"Eighty-one years for Kelekis is pretty phenomenal," said Katz at city hall before the ceremony. "I believe no matter where you live in the city of Winnipeg, you've travelled to Kelekis. I certainly have on many occasions; it used to be a regular haunt for me."

While the designation won't change the street's name, sign toppers were added to signage on Main between Aberdeen and Redwood avenues to make sure the restaurant isn't forgotten.

"Though the restaurant may be closing, the memory of Kelekis should be allowed to live on," said Coun. Grant Nordman (St. Charles) in a release.

Owner Mary Kelekis and her sister Becky Walker took a short break from their busy last day to receive the honour.

VCCL. Housing co-op won't have to pay steep penalty to break mortgage

A change to Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation's (CMHC) lending programs announced this week is welcome news for a Winnipeg-based not-for-profit housing co-operative left unable to afford much-needed renovations under the old rules.

Previously the CMHC wanted St. Vital's Village Canadien Co-op Limited (VCCL) to pay a $5.5-million penalty in order prepay its fixed-rate $4.5-million mortgage, but changes announced Tuesday mean the penalty will be greatly reduced for social-housing projects like the VCCL that need extra money for repairs.

"Now they say they'll use the normal penalty that a private financial institution would charge," explained VCCL president Linda Ferguson. "I was so happy I wanted to cry when I heard."

The changes free up VCCL to prepay the closed CMHC loan it signed in the '80s — which carries a 13.25 per cent interest rate — sign a new mortgage with a local credit union at a much lower rate, and borrow additional money to pay for new windows, insulation and roof repairs at its 150 townhouses.

Musician Tom Wilson plans to put on a bare-bones show in March at Pony Corral Downtown. CONTRIBUTED

Intimate Tom Wilson gig to benefit Siloam Mission

Music. Agency's 'inspiring' work for the underprivileged spurs March 15 concert

winnipeg@metronews.ca

Dig it.

Hamilton, Ont., musician Tom Wilson — known for his solo projects as well as his work with Junkhouse, Blackie and the Rodeo Kings, and Lee Harvey Osmond — returns to Winnipeg for an intimate performance in support of Siloam Mission.

The show, slated for March 15 at Pony Corral Downtown, is being organized by Bart Todd, president of Winnipeg promotion company Big Ol' Entertainment.

"I had the opportunity to do some work with Siloam Mission and the chance to tour the facility at 300 Princess," Todd said. "They have great programs and services that I had no idea were available to the underprivileged. The amount of work they do for Winnipeg's homeless is inspiring."

Todd contacted Wilson, having previously worked with him in 2011 for a Lee Harvey Osmond show at the Park Theatre. Wilson was on board immediately.

"Bart is really enthusiastic, a real music lover and that's the kind of people we're looking for," Wilson said.

"My firm belief is when members of the arts community call and have their heart on their sleeve, you should pay attention."

Wilson said the up-close and personal performance will span his entire catalogue but focus on Lee Harvey Osmond and its new album, The Folk Sinner.

Released Jan. 15, the album features such guests as Hawksley Workman, Oh Susanna, Skydiggers singer Andy Maize and Cowboy Junkies vocalist Margo Timmins, but Wilson said the songs easily transfer to a more stripped-down environment.

"There's no 18-piece band that can come up against one guy with a guitar who is completely committed to the moment," said Wilson, who is bringing along Junkhouse and Lee Harvey drummer Ray Farrugia.

Opening the show is Winnipeg musician Chris Carmichael.

Tickets go on sale Friday and are $50 at diyobo.com, Pony Corral Downtown, Siloam Mission or by calling (204) 981-1377.

Alabama gunman kills bus driver, seizes six-year-old boy, police say

Hostage standoff.

Man took child to underground hideout

A gunman holed up in a bunker with a six-year-old hostage kept law officers at bay Wednesday in an all-night, all-day standoff that began when he killed a school-bus driver and dragged the boy away, authorities said.

SWAT teams took up positions around the gunman's rural property, and police negotiators tried to win the kidnapper's safe release.

Sheriff Wally Olson said in a brief statement Wednesday evening that negotiators continued talking to the suspect and "at this time we have no reason to believe that the child has been harmed."

The gunman, identified by neighbours as Jimmy Lee Dykes, a 65-year-old retired truck driver, was known around the neighbourhood as a menacing figure who once beat a dog to death with a

Law-enforcement personnel set up a checkpoint Wednesday in Midland City, Ala., near a bunker where a school-bus-shooting suspect was barricaded with a child hostage. lead pipe, threatened to shoot children for setting foot on his property and patrolled his yard at night with a flashlight and a shotgun.

He had been scheduled to appear in court Wednesday morning to answer charges he shot at his neighbours in a dispute last month over a speed bump.

The standoff along a red dirt road began on Tuesday afternoon, after a gunman boarded a stopped school bus filled with children in the town of Midland City, population 2,300. The sheriff said the man shot the bus driver when he refused to hand over a six-year-old child. The gunman then took the boy away.

"As far as we know there is no relation at all. He just wanted a child for a hostage situation," said Michael Senn, a pastor who helped comfort the traumatized children after the attack.

It was unclear if Dykes made any demands from his underground bunker, which resembled a tornado shelter.

About 50 vehicles from federal, state and local agencies were clustered at the end of a dirt road near where Dykes lived in a small travel trailer. Nearby homes were evacuated after authorities found what was believed to be a bomb on his property.

State Rep. Steve Clouse, who met with authorities and visited the boy's family, said the bunker had food and electricity, and the youngster was watching TV. He said law-enforcement authorities were communicating with the gunman but he had no details on how. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ballerina afraid to go back to Russia

Bolshoi ballerina Svetlana Lunkina COLIN MCCONNELL/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Prima fear. Threats to leading lady follow acid attack on Bolshoi artistic director

A leading ballerina with the Bolshoi Ballet says she wants to stay in Canada after receiving threats — a move that follows an acid attack on the dance troupe's ballet chief and highlights tensions at the theatre.

Svetlana Lunkina, 33, has told the Russian daily Izvestia that she asked the Bolshoi to extend her leave as she fears returning to Russia. Lunkina's statement came two weeks after the attack on Bolshoi artistic director Sergei Filin, who was badly burned when an unidentified masked assailant threw sulphuric acid in his face.

Bolshoi spokeswoman Katerina Novikova confirmed Wednesday that the theatre had accepted Lunkina's request to extend her leave, but made no further comment.

The ballerina said she was scared to hear about the attack on Filin, who has undergone several surgeries to save his eyesight and treat severe burns on his face.

"I feel a strong compassion for his family," Lunkina said. "I hope they will find those who committed that crime."

Dirty dancing

- Lunkina said the threats were linked to a conflict between her husband and a business partner over a movie about Mathilde Kschessinskaya, a ballerina famous for both her talent as a dancer and for her liaison with Russia's last czar, Nicholas II.

Sex and disability. Bosnian basketball players want prostitution legalized

Members of a Bosnia wheelchair basketball club are launching a campaign to legalize prostitution in the country to help disabled people "achieve their right to love."

Marinko Umicevic, president of the club Vrbas, said Wednesday that Bosnia had to catch up with 21st-century Europe, where he said some people with disabilities "even get state subsidies to pay for sex."

Umicevic said some of his players have never had sex and legalizing the sex trade would help people like them achieve their basic rights. Club members were organizing a petition on the proposal in Banja Luka.

Along the same theme, Helen Hunt received an Oscar nomination this year for best supporting actress for her portrayal of a sex worker helping a disabled man in the movie The Sessions.

January showers to bring February freeze in Ontario

Unseasonable weather brought buckets of rain on Toronto, with temperatures hitting a record 14 C Wednesday morning. Southern Ontario is in for what Environment Canada calls a weather "roller-coaster" in the next few days led by a warm front moving in from Colorado. But meteorologists warned winter will be back with a vengeance Thursday, with the mercury plunging to below freezing as an Arctic cold front moves in overnight.

BRINGING IN THE BIG

Army targets safety

Canada's armed forces are waging war on avalanches.

There's no messing around where one of the world's avalanche hotspots intersects with a transportation corridor connecting British Columbia to the rest of the country.

As the Trans-Canada Highway and Canadian Pacific Railway work their way through the Selkirk Mountains, they enter a hazardous 40-kilometre stretch at Rogers Pass in Glacier National Park in B.C. The scenic route features no less than 138 known avalanche paths above the highway.

To keep the public safe, Parks Canada — along with the Department of National Defence — has stood at the ready since 1962, working 24-7 with a variety of avalanche-control tools.

And, when needed, they bring out the big gun: a 105-mm howitzer cannon that launches pre-emptive artillery strikes that trigger slides well before they've built up to a point that threatens the highway

Department of National Defence forces cover their ears while sending blasts to safely trigger an avalanche. PARKS CANADA (which sees approximately 4,000 vehicles daily).

"We operate the world's largest mobile avalanche control program. The howitzer can be deployed any time, day or night. Even in the middle of a snow storm," explains Jeff Goodrich, senior avalanche forecaster at Parks Canada.

In order to keep the public safe during the blasts, traffic along the highway is closed in both directions and back-country users with winter permits in Glacier National Park are notified to stay out

Howitzer facts

The gun is used an average of 20 times each winter and can strike at 270 targets from 17 gun positions.

of winter-restricted areas that are closed.

The operation is a sight to behold — not to mention hear — and extremely effective.

"If you look at our 51 years running the program, we've had no fatalities (involving the travelling public)," says Goodrich. "It's a highly diligent program."

Initiation into the wild

Staying safe in Mother Nature's wicked winter wonderland is an art and science.

Knowing how to use survival gear, being able to identify and traverse terrain and learning about snow science are all crucial for avoiding disaster.

That's where Avalanche Skills Training (AST) courses come in.

"The statistics for surviving avalanches are very grim, so it's definitely a safety move," says John Grant, an AST instructor with Vancouver's Canada West Mountain School.

Weekend courses at the school take students through a full day of classroom study before putting their newfound knowledge to the test in the backcountry.

The Canadian Avalanche Centre (CAC) — which sets the criteria for public AST courses — says about 7,000 people took a course last year.

"To go into the mountains in the winter, you just need to have the gear," says CAC forecast co-ordinator Ilya Storm.

"Having a beacon, probe, shovel is just like having a seat-belt or an airbag in your car."

Grant says more people are taking the course as a "door-opener" to the backcountry.

It was an easy choice for Steve Roberts and his girlfriend.

"We've been resort skiers for a long time now and we're looking to go into the backcountry," Roberts says after a stressful avalanche rescue simulation. "You can read ... but until you start doing it yourself, you have no idea."

"When it comes to decision making ... things can get complicated and you can get excited, so it's really important to have that base knowledge."

The course is just an introduction to the backcountry. Practice with gear and real-world experience are also vital.

"This is just the start," says Karin Hung after a field day with her AST1 class. "There are so many high-profile stories about people making the wrong decisions, I think it's important to get informed."

A full list of CAC-certified courses can be found at avalanche.ca.

Forecasting risk

The watchers.

Avalanche analysts play critical role in preventing tragedy

MATT KIELTYKA
Metro in Vancouver

Hidden away in a nondescript building in the heart of Revelstoke's quaint snow globe-esque downtown is the nation's avalanche nerve centre.

Upstairs in a second-floor office, terrain maps litter the central room.

Known avalanches are plotted on a map of British Columbia regions on a wall.

Three forecasters, eying up two computer screens each, compile weather and snow-pack information, frantically put together public avalanche forecasts and send out localized bulletins — all while handling a rush of media interviews.

Welcome to the Canadian Avalanche Centre (CAC).

"It gets busy on days like these," said Ilya Storm, the CAC's forecast co-ordinator, in an interview earlier this month after snowstorms hammered the mountainous regions in southeast British Columbia.

The avalanche danger has been "extreme" during the storms.

But the coming weekend calls for blue skies, which means skiers, slidders and snowshoers will be heading to the backcountry en masse to take advantage of the fresh snow as the danger level is downgraded in most regions to "considerable."

Blue skies spell trouble

"This weekend we'll have fewer avalanches, but we'll have blue skies, good riding conditions (meaning) more people will be out there."

Ilya Storm, forecast co-ordinator for the Canadian Avalanche Centre, who says human-triggered avalanches are most common during good weather.

It can be a recipe for disaster.

"That's where we run into problems," said Storm. "When the risk is extreme, it's an easy decision to make ... you stay home. This weekend, we'll have fewer avalanches but we'll have blue skies, good riding conditions so more people will be out there. And when you see other people riding hard, it's tempting to go out and push it a bit more."

In terms of human-triggered fatal avalanches, weekends like that are the most dangerous, so Storm and his team are getting the message out through bulletins and the media.

"Half of our job is the forecasting, the technical analysis and the science of it," says Storm. "The other half is effective communications and how we talk to people. Decision-making, drive and motivation are big factors and we bring that into play in our forecasts."

The CAC was established in 2004 in the aftermath of a deadly, record-setting winter that killed 29 people the year before.

Analysts glean information coming in from virtually every private and public operator in Western Canada — shared by professionals through the Canadian Avalanche Association's Information Exchange (InfoEX) system — to create its public forecasts.

Each day, the team — which includes forecasters in satellite offices — creates daily forecasts for 12 regions.

Once a week, they'll create a long-term forecast.

They're customized documents that provide essential information on conditions and avalanche terrain for anyone venturing into the backcountry.

In the 2011-2012 season, the CAC received 1,413,230 bulletin requests.

Storm sees the bulletins as a critical public service.

"The outdoors is part of what we sell to people," he said. "As a society, (forecasts and avalanche education are) something we should support. It can serve people well."

The members of the Canadian Avalanche Centre know this better than most.

It's what keeps them going through those busy days.

"We are all avid recreationists, we love getting out into the mountains. I think most people here have some kind of a sad story," said Storm. "That's why it feels like good work. We're all trying to prevent the next tragedy because we've all been touched by avalanches."

Chief Spence the butt of insults at a Tory fundraising dinner

Idle No More. Brazeau, Galipeau mock the hunger striker, rest of aboriginal movement

Two members of Stephen Harper's Conservative caucus — an elected MP and a senator — publicly disparaged the Idle No More movement and Attawapiskat Chief Theresa Spence at a fundraising dinner for a provincial candidate Tuesday.

Sen. Patrick Brazeau referred to Spence's "so-called hunger strike" in addressing about 80 people at a Legion hall in the Ottawa suburb of Orleans and mocked her physical shape. "I was sick two weeks ago," Brazeau said. "I had the flu and I lost five pounds."

"I look at Miss Spence, when she started her hunger strike, and now?" he added as a voice in the hall called out. "She's fatter," which drew laughter from much of the audience.

Brazeau said that, though

Attawapiskat Chief Theresa Spence after ending her hunger strike on Jan. 24. Spence was ridiculed by two Tory politicians at a recent fundraiser.

SEAN KILPATRICK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Idle No More has put aboriginal issues in the news, he does not support their methods. "They don't stand for anything," he said.

"I, as an Algonquin person, am living proof that no one will colonize me."

After Brazeau spoke about being turned away Dec. 24 when he tried to visit Victoria Island, where Spence was conducting her hunger protest, Ottawa-Orleans MP Royal Galipeau told the crowd he too had gone to see Spence.

Galipeau said he was allowed into Spence's tent on Boxing Day because he wasn't recognized. At that point, Spence, who consumed only liquids during her protest, was 15 days into her 44-day fast, which she ended last Thursday.

"I stood in the circle around Chief Spence," Galipeau said. "I noticed that manicure of hers. I tell you Anne can't afford it," he said, referring to his wife. "Most people in Idle No More are my skin colour and about my age. It reminded me of the 1960s and 1970s flower people who are now organizers for the NDP in Ottawa Centre. They are the same people I saw in the Occupy movement the previous summer."

Alleged killer still on the loose

A gunman opened fire at an office complex in Arizona's largest city Wednesday, killing the CEO of a company, wounding two other people and setting off a manhunt. Police warned the public that the suspect was "armed and dangerous."

Authorities identified the suspect as Arthur D. Harmon, who they said opened fire at the end of a mediation session. Authorities believe Harmon acted alone and fled the scene in a car after the 10:30 a.m. shooting, said Sgt. Tommy Thompson, a Phoenix police spokesman. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Insemination mix-up. Doctor could lose licence over alleged misconduct

An Ottawa fertility doctor faces a disciplinary hearing Thursday over allegations he artificially inseminated three women with the wrong sperm.

Dr. Bernard Norman Barwin, a celebrated gynecologist, could lose his licence if the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario discipline panel finds he committed misconduct. He agreed last year to stop the practice of insemination after the college filed its notice of hearing.

The medical college alleges that three of Barwin's patients discovered their children aren't biologically related to their husband or, in one case, the patient's chosen donor.

Two women with the same allegations sued Barwin a few years ago. The lawsuits were resolved last year, but neither the women's lawyer nor Barwin's lawyer could discuss the terms.

Barwin was invested in the Order of Canada in 1997 for his "profound impact on both the biological and psycho-social aspects of women's reproductive health."

He founded the non-profit, pro-choice organization Canadians for Choice, which gives away an annual Dr. Norman Barwin Scholarship to a graduate student studying sexual health and reproductive rights.

If the College of Physicians and Surgeons' disciplinary panel finds Barwin committed professional misconduct, it can revoke his licence, suspend him, impose restrictions, reprimand him, order him to pay a fine or a combination of those sanctions. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Déjà vu

Two of the circumstances described match that of two women who sued Barwin and his Broadview Fertility Clinic a few years ago.

- Trudy Moore and her husband approached Moore's sister in 2006 to act as a surrogate for the couple, according to the family's statement of claim. Days after the baby was born, it was revealed that neither the husband nor the sister had the same blood type as the newborn.

- Jacqueline Slinn, the second woman to sue Barwin, believed she was inseminated with sperm from donor 3168, according to her statement of claim. Slinn and two other 3168 mothers discovered none shared the same biological father, she alleged.

RIM rebrands as BlackBerry, launches long-awaited phones

'We heard you loud and clear.' Buzz around clever predictive text, better OS, message hub, and 'time-shift' photos

JESSICA SMITH
Metro in Toronto

BlackBerry launched a new operating system, two new phones, a rebranding and a comeback attempt on Wednesday.

The Waterloo-based company BlackBerry — which until Wednesday's rebranding was known as Research In Motion — held simultaneous events in New York, Toronto, London, Paris, Dubai, Johannesburg, Jakarta and Delhi.

Thorsten Heins, president and CEO of the company since co-founders Jim Balsillie and Mike Lazaridis resigned a year ago, appeared live on

The BlackBerry 10 is displayed, Wednesday, in New York. BlackBerry is promising a speedy browser, a superb typing experience and the ability to keep work and personal identities separate. MARK LENNIHAN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS stage at Pier 36 in New York and on video at the global launch events.

The launch was initially scheduled for a year ago.

"We have transformed ourselves inside and out," said Heins. That transformation was "heartfelt" and required the company to be brutally honest, he said.

BlackBerry is releasing two phones that use the new BlackBerry 10 operating system. The Z10 is a touchscreen phone that uses a virtual keyboard with a unique form of predictive text, allowing users to "flick" entire words from the keyboard into their messages and documents.

The Q10 has a physical keyboard, but will not be available until April.

"We heard you loud and clear," said Heins. "We built this for those people who said they just had to have the physical keyboard typing experience."

The BlackBerry 10 operating system includes a hub for all communications, including schedule notifications, Twitter and Facebook messages, BBM pins and text messages.

The OS includes BlackBerry Balance, which allows separate functions and controls for people who want to separate their phone's functions for their work lives from their personal lives.

The Z10 has 16 GB of storage, a 4.2-inch touch display, a battery with up to ten hours of talk time and 4G capability. It also has a front camera and an 8-megapixel rear camera, built-in photo editing and filters. Its most-hyped photo feature is "time shift," which allows users to scroll through different versions of the same photo to select, for example, a moment before a subject blinked.

BlackBerry's new app store is BlackBerry World, where 70,000 apps are available and users can pay to download music, movies and TV shows.

Natural gas: $3.34 US (+8¢)
Dow Jones: 13,910.42 (-44)

Review. Z10 gets 4 out of 5 stars

The BlackBerry Z10 is attractive, easy to use and easy to type quickly with. The predictive text system works well and being able to "flick" words from the virtual keyboard onto the screen is a bonus.

The OS is run by swiping across the screen in different directions, which, once learned, makes navigating around the phone easy.

Browsing isn't anything like it was on old BlackBerry. Web pages load properly and streaming video works.

The BlackBerry Hub, where you can easily access notifications, emails, texts, PINs, and social media messages without actually leaving the app you were using, works very well.

The major drawback is the apps. At the launch in Toronto, a BlackBerry official told reporters to look for announcements in coming days, but could give no guarantees that major apps, including Instagram, Netflix and Google Maps, would ever be available.

Apps for RBC banking, Skype, Kindle, Facebook, LinkedIn, Twitter, Foursquare, Dropbox, SoundHound, The Weather Channel, Evernote, and Rdio are available, and the major game-makers are in the process of bringing over their apps as well.

The Z10 competes with the iPhone and Android phones like Samsung's Galaxy SIII on everything but apps, and fortunately for BlackBerry, the app situation can change.

However, after waiting a year for the release of the new OS and phones, the lack of some major apps is bound to disappoint some consumers. It's bad news for the company if consumers choose to hold out longer to see if their favourite apps arrive.

SPACE TRAVEL IS ALL ABOUT MONKEYING AROUND

HE SAYS...
John Mazerolle
metronews.ca

Have you noticed how laissez-faire coverage of space exploration is these days? I'm excited about how dull outer space is getting.

There's a Canadian in orbit and we're focusing on his Twitter feed and his guitar playing. Meanwhile, Iran sent a monkey into space and it only got equal coverage (maybe) with a monkey in an Ikea parking lot. If Iran wanted attention, they should have dressed it in an adorable shearling spacesuit.

I'm not lamenting this lack of excitement, I think it's amazing and wonderful that we've gotten used to it. I like to think it means we've accepted it as our destiny, rather than gotten bored with it.

To understand how we got here (or there), here's a completely accurate timeline of human space exploration.

1949: The U.S. sends a monkey into space. Harry S. Truman delivers a triumphant message to the world that reads, in part, "Top that, future Iranian theocracy."

1956-1957: Russia launches Sputnik I and Sputnik II: Electric Boogaloo into space, the latter with the dog Laika on board. The dog dies, giving the U.S.S.R. valuable Cold War information about the need to feed your dog in space.

1958: Soviet spacecraft Zond 5 is thought to be the first vessel to orbit the moon, though we now realize the craft actually orbited an American television studio in Nevada.

1961: Astronaut Alan Shepard becomes the first person that matters, or "American," in space.

1955-1971: The Soviet Union has the first satellite, spacecraft, human in space, woman in space, spacewalk, lunar rover and space station, but, as history teaches us, the U.S. is the winner of the space race because they were the first country to use the moon for golf.

1962: John Glenn becomes the first American to orbit Earth. He sees the Earth as it really is, a fragile home of one unified species, and is told that if he shares those feelings with anyone he will be executed for treason.

1972: Eugene Cernan and Harrison "Jack" Schmitt are the last men to walk on the moon, and are loved forever, as can be proven by the fact that you have no need to look up whether those are their real names or just a couple of names I made up.

1976: America's Viking 2 finds the first possible signs of life on Mars — chewed cigar ends, two open condom wrappers and a sink full of dirty dishes.

1981: The Canadarm is sent into orbit, the first limb of the action hero Cana-dar. When the final piece, the Canabdomen, is sent into orbit next year, the SuperRobot will rule the world from space, and kick some Canadass.

1996: Khan Noonien Singh takes the DY-100 class interplanetary sleeper ship Botany Bay out of the solar system.

2012: Canadian Chris Hadfield — a hyper-intelligent, unbelievably eloquent and experienced pilot-musician who can use Twitter constantly without being annoying and can rock a moustache no problem — is launched into space by a bunch of guys who were feeling insecure whenever he was around.

2013: Iran sends a monkey into space. The mission is considered a failure when the monkey's guitar playing is mediocre at best and his tweets are nothing more than repeated requests for more bananas.

Iran said it has launched a monkey into space. The U.S. worries that technology from the space program could be used to develop long-range missiles that could potentially be armed with nuclear warheads. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wintry bubble bath

Ice photography

Surreal bubbles frozen in icy lake

Eerie, painterly and almost supernatural, these bubbles are in fact a real wonder.

This stunning photograph shows hundreds of frozen bubbles trapped below Abraham Lake in Alberta. Located at the foot of the Rocky Mountains on the North Saskatchewan River, the rare phenomenon occurs each winter in the man-made lake. METRO

Ice bubbles

- Organic matter on the lake bed releases methane gas, which freezes as it comes up to the surface. Normally, methane turns into carbon dioxide before reaching the surface.
- Bubbles keep stacking up below the frozen lake once the weather gets colder.
- Stacks of frozen bubbles are reminiscent of slabs of rock that form volcanic pillars.

Expedition experience

'My forehead was bleeding a little'

Judging by the photographer's experience, this photography is not without its perils.

"I use crampons to avoid slipping, but on one of my first trips to the lake, a giant gust of wind came barreling down, picked me up and threw me back on the ice," said Chip Phillips, the photographer. "My forehead was bleeding a little ... so I am very careful when I go out now." METRO

Boats get better with age on A Fairway Full of Miners

A Fairway Full of Miners, the third album by Winnipeg indie pop outfit Boats, comes out Tuesday via Kill Rock Stars. VALENTIN MITTELSTET

Third album. Group focuses on death and 'other terrible things' on latest effort

BACKSTAGE PASS
Jared Story
winipeg@metronews.ca

All grown up. Winnipeg indie pop band Boats shows some maturity on its third album A Fairway Full of Miners, due out Tuesday via Portland, Oregon record label Kill Rock Stars.

While its previous effort — 2010's Cannonballs, Cannonballs — was full of swift, slaphappy, sugar high pop, A Fairway Full of Miners contains moodier, yet still memorable, epics and ballads.

"The natural progression was to make more complex songs that are a little longer with more unpredictable structures but at the same time trying to write tighter three minute pop songs," Mat Klachefsky says, Boats frontman and songwriter, who is joined in the band by keyboardist Ashley Roch, guitarist Rory Ellis, bassist Louis Levesque-Cote and drummer Luke Bergen.

"There's not as many 'ba ba bas' and 'doo, doo, doos', because it feels weird doing that at 31. Also, lyrically the songs are pretty brutal, all about death or other terrible things."

Still, songs like Animated GIFs and Advice on Bears don't exactly sound sad. Credit that to plenty of poppy hooks, handclaps and Klachefsky's helium-high voice.

"Oxygen deprivation mostly," Klachefsky says jokingly of his shrill pitch. "I never really thought (his singing voice) was different. I guess it's good because it sets us apart, but it's just how I do it. It's the sound that comes out of my body."

Speaking of sounds, for the song Sad Legs, Boats captured the audio of instrument abuse, beating on a plugged-in electric guitar with a hammer.

"Normally I turn my distortion pedal on and punch the back of my guitar as hard as I can, so I figured if we were going to record that we should go a little further," Klachefsky says. "A few days previous to doing that, a friend who lived in the same building as me knocked on my door, handed me a guitar and then just walked away. I knew he didn't really play guitar so I figured I could take it and do whatever I wanted to it."

Boats showcases A Fairway Full of Miners on Saturday at the West End Cultural Centre. The night will also include the Random Band Spectacular where 12 local musicians will be split into three random bands to perform nine cover songs they've never played before. Tickets are $12 the WECC, Music Trader, Winnipeg Folk Festival Music Store and Ticketmaster or $17 at the door. Showtime is 8 p.m.

There's plenty of life in Pacino yet

Stand Up Guys. Acting legend talks about directing, poker and retirement — a concept he refuses to understand

Metro World News in Hollywood

Stand Up Guys finds Al Pacino playing an aging criminal released from prison after 28 years and taking stock of his life while trying to prove he's still got some life in him. So it seems like a perfect time to check in on Pacino himself and see how he's holding up. Here's what we learned from our chat with the 72-year-old actor.

He has no plans for retirement
"I don't even know what that means, really. It's all about retiring to what? What is retirement about? Sometimes I wonder, why am I doing this? And then sometimes I don't think about that. I think it's understanding what you're capable of doing. If a role interests me, excites me or challenges me, then I don't see any reason why I wouldn't try it. If the roles become far and fewer between, then that's OK too, because then I'll find other things to do. But there's (directing) Salome, doing Looking for Richard, those things are sort of extensions of myself and my life. I could be doing that while I was retired.

He feels far from accomplished as a director, though

"I feel that I'm doing the wrong thing. Sometimes when I do a movie and I'm sitting seeing a preview of the movie I'm thinking — because the film is some place else, usually in the editing room, miles away, and they're bringing it to the theatre — I often think, I hope that somebody grabs hold of that film right now and recuts it and makes it good (laughs). I've made about four or five of my own films. Only one has seen the light of day, but I do have other films I've made, with my own money. Spielberg once said to me, 'Never put your own money in a movie.' And he was right. But at the same time, it was fun to do and I'm glad I did it. And I'd do it again. I'm trying to put together this thing on Modigliani, and now I will either direct it or produce it, but it was my idea to do it. I've wanted to play it for a long time, but I'm too old to play Modigliani now."

He admits he wasn't always easy to direct

"There's no doubt that I've gotten easier to work with. There's no doubt. They tell me that. I think that when I was younger I was much more difficult. If I learned anything from directing, I learned what directors go through with actors. A certain amount of empathy is gotten out of that by doing it yourself."

Pacino stars alongside Christopher Walken and Alan Arkin in Stand Up Guys. HANDOUT

Producer feels double life show can Do No Harm

Steven Pasquale. Lead actor relishing challenge as he takes on roles of playing Jekyll and Hyde versions of himself

There's a new high-concept split-personality thriller on the block, NBC's Do No Harm, starring Steven Pasquale as both successful neurosurgeon Jason and the destructive psychopath Ian, who takes over Jason's body between 8:25 p.m. and 8:25 a.m. Of course, this isn't the first show to try out the double life concept, — examples of these series include NBC's My Own Worst Enemy in 2008 and Awake last year, neither of which made it out to a second season.

But the folks behind Do No Harm are heading into this week's premiere with confidence. "I think that ultimately you can only write the show you want to watch, and this was a show that I just wanted to see on TV," says executive producer David Schulner.

"But definitely I took lessons from those shows and I said this is going to be a show you're going to want to watch every single week. You can't wait to tune in because it's so crazy. The stuff that Ian does to Jason and Jason will do to Ian, it's a wild roller coaster ride, and it's just thrilling and fun. So I think that's where the big difference between those shows are."

That thrilling fun comes mostly from the ways in which Ian goes wild with Jason's life while his more mild-mannered counterpart sleeps. "Ian's a little bit like a cat. The cat wants to play with that mouse. He doesn't want to kill it because what fun would that be?" Schulner says.

"So Ian's going to do a lot of stuff to Jason. And then what's great about Jason is he's just as smart as Ian is and is sometimes two steps ahead, so there are traps in place. So it's a constant cat-and-mouse chess game between the two of them. But Ian is not toothless. There's a true danger to him. He's truly menacing, and that's why Jason's character needs to get rid of him."

For Pasquale, that makes for a fascinating acting challenge, but at least he knows both characters' fates are safe. "Ian's aware that if he were ever to murder somebody, they would (both) go to jail," Pasquale says, while stressing that "it really is a very real threat of something going very dark. Whether or not it happens will remain to be seen, but certainly that's where all of the tension lies."

Pasquale, here with Alana De La Garza, enjoys Do No Harm's challenge. GETTY

Nicki Minaj. Singer not worried by Grammy snub

Nicki Minaj believes her Grammy time will come. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite having a big year in music, Nicki Minaj didn't receive any Grammy nominations. Not a problem, she says.

"I've gotten tons of awards and I believe when it's my time to get a Grammy, I'll get a Grammy," she said. The 30-year-old had one of last year's biggest hits with Starships and her sophomore album, Pink Friday: Roman Reloaded, has reached gold status.

But Minaj, who received three Grammy nominations last year, was shut out when this year's nominations were announced. "I think that the Grammys had a different reason, that I do not want to discuss ..." she said. "But I respect their organization and I'll get a Grammy eventually. I'm not worried about it."

A representative for The Recording Academy didn't immediately respond to an email Tuesday seeking comment.

Minaj was criticized when she released her sophomore album last April for taking on a pop-and-electronic sound that echoed Katy Perry, Rihanna and Ke$ha. Roman Reloaded is a mesh of hip-hop, dance, pop, R&B and reggae flavours. "I understand that artists and critics make a big deal over the Grammys. But when I go to my shows and I'm selling out arenas in London and Australia, there aren't any Grammys there," she said.

Sheeran a star on the rise

Q&A. The British musician on his forthcoming duet with Elton John, dating and Taylor Swift

MEREDITH ENGEL

Metro World News in New York

British singer/songwriter Ed Sheeran is nominated for song of the year for The A Team at this year's Grammys, but he's been a member of an "A Team" for quite some time.

He is the writer behind the One Direction songs Little Things and Moments, and last year he performed at the Olympics and the Queen's Jubilee. This year, he's shaping up to be a star player.

He has a sold-out show at Radio City on Wednesday night, plays a duet with Elton John at the Grammys and joins Taylor Swift on her Red tour this summer. Metro caught up with him for a chat.

Congratulations on your Grammy nomination! How did you hear about it?

Ed Sheeran will make his new album in Nashville. GETTY IMAGE

I didn't expect to be nominated and I was quite drunk at the time as well, so all these "Congratulations!" texts were coming in and I kind of thought it was for something else.

Tell us about performing with Elton John.

Yeah, I mean, it doesn't really get bigger than that. ... He rung me up and was like, "So, how would you feel about playing the Grammys with me?" and I was like, "Um, yeah, I think that could probably work."

Will you be nervous sharing the stage with him?

You know what, I'm not nervous about being on TV and I'm not nervous about it being a duet with Elton, but I am nervous having to play in front of — like, it's one thing being from Britain going to a British awards show because when you go to that you kind of know 95 per cent of the people there. But I've never been in front of — pretty much the whole of the American industry. I don't know any of them, apart from someone like Taylor (Swift). I mean it's good, it puts me on the map, but it's also quite nerve-racking.

Speaking of Taylor Swift, you'll be joining her on tour this summer.

Yeah, it starts in March and finishes in September. It should be great.

You're friendly with her already, and you're touring together this summer. Will you hang out during your downtime?

In my time off I'm gonna be making an album. I'm moving to Nashville for a bit while I make a record and I think Taylor lives just around the corner, so we'll be hanging and probably writing more music.

Since you're on her album, Red, can we expect to hear her on your next CD?

Um, probably not, no. I'm gonna kinda steer away from doing collaborations, I think, on this record. ... (But) if we end up writing a song that's completely mind-blowing, then yeah.

Lohan calls in sick to court date

Lindsay Lohan is no stranger to missing court dates but at least this time she apparently has a good reason. Lohan planned to miss yesterday's hearing because she was feeling ill, according to E! News.

The troubled starlet is still in New York, where she has reportedly come down with the flu, and the condition is said to be serious enough that she managed to get a doctor to declare her unfit to travel.

All of those Tiger Beat questionnaires that Dazed and Confused star Jason London had to fill out in the '90s never foresaw him crapping in the back seat of a cop car.

Yes, the former teen heartthrob got into a bit of a mess in Scottsdale, Ariz., on Saturday night after getting into a bar fight with some bouncers. According to the police report, cops were called and London was so nuts that he had to be subdued after shoving a few officers.

But it was in the backseat of the cop car on the way to being booked where it gets bad. En route to the station, London started throwing insults to the cops.

"I f---ing love this. I f--- ing own you guys so hard," he reportedly yelled. "I'm rich and I'm a motherf---ing famous actor! F---ing look me up, bitch. It smells like s--- in your car and your breath smells like diarrhea."

The actor then allegedly leaned to the left and pooped his pants. London, not one to forget his theatre training, then gave this zinger: "I told you I'm happy as s---."

London was eventually arrested for disorderly conduct/fighting and assault, and for realizing that you don't need to take similes literally.

KHLOE KARDASHIAN

As she promotes her makeup line, Khroma Beauty, X Factor USA host Khloe Kardashian opens up her beauty cabinet, reveals the family beauty secrets and gushes over baby Kimye.

SISTER ACT

ROMINA

Khroma Beauty, the cosmetics line Khloe Kardashian has launched with her equally famous sisters, is made up of face palettes, mascaras and lip glosses with snazzy names like Kardazzle and, most intriguingly, Shebang. So she is naturally a goldmine of beauty advice on everything from eye makeup ("Never share an eye pencil or mascara; you don't know what infections people have!") and blemishes ("I'll put some concealer on here and there and use loose facial powder, but never all-over foundation.")

But when it comes to the topic we're all wondering about, she only has this to say about her soon to be niece or nephew, most commonly known as baby Kimye: "We're so excited!" She gives us a peek inside her beauty cabinet.

Khroma Beauty Kurve

Lancôme Hypnôse Mascara

"My eyes are my favourite assets. I don't wear false lashes, just mascara. So I always have one in my purse."

Q + A

Khloe on...

Growing up Kardashian

"I wasn't allowed to wear full on makeup until I was 15. I could only wear it on my eyes. So one time, when I was in the sixth grade, I picked out this blue shadow that was just not cute. My sisters tried to tell me to tone it down. They taught me the tricks of the trade. I would watch what they did and try to mimic them. And my mom would always say: 'If you don't have time to do anything, just make sure you put a pop of colour on your lips'. You don't need much more."

Feeling beautiful, while married

"Makeup or no makeup, you have to be comfortable in your own skin, especially in the bedroom. If you're not, it could shine through. But if your partner is constantly telling you you're beautiful, then you don't really care what you wear or what you look like. Beauty isn't just about makeup. It's about taking care of yourself."

Looking camera-ready, all the time

"Always carry a huge pair of sunglasses with you. There's no need to be wearing a full face of makeup and stilettos all day, every day. Just do little things, like brushing your hair before you leave the house."

When decorating trends turn to classics

Decor. Which of this year's trends should you invest in?

DESIGN CENTRE
Karl Lohnes
home@metronews.ca

Over the past century we've seen many decor trends come and go, with some holding the test of time to prosper and become classics, though usually with some modern tweaking. In the 1980s, natural seagrass carpeting became a trend that never went away.

In the '90s, stainless-steel kitchen appliances was splashed on the domestic kitchen market and stabilized as long-term investments for the kitchen.

So what new decorating trends will we be seeing a lot of, for at least the next decade? I have three predictions.

Grey

This solemn neutral was huge in the mid '80s. Back then it was a steely-blue grey and used only to achieve a modern esthetic.

Its return to the decorating world was a nice way to gently transition us away from all the golden taupe that we had grown so fond of.

But this time around the grey is a bit warmer (think grey flannel) and used for both traditional and modern decorating.

Look for this neutral to stick around. Watch it warm up a bit more to an elephant or driftwood colour. This will be the new taupe — cooler than what we remember and looking great with off-white, gold metallics and shots of strong colour.

Chevron pattern

Whether you call it zig-zag, herringbone or chevron, this angled linear pattern has come in and out of decor fashion for decades. Currently, the design is highlighted with contrasting coloured stripes that add punchy patterns to wallpaper, bedding, fabrics and carpets.

Look for this pattern calming itself down and being shown more as a texture than an obvious print. Tone-on-tone is the way to go with this classic chevron pattern if you want it around for a long time.

Farmhouse style

It goes without saying that country-style decorating is still the most popular form of decor, maybe not in your city, but trust me, it's everywhere else in the world.

Farmhouse chic is a style that allows us to mix humble, worn furnishings with a touch or industrial style in order to make it cool again. All of a sudden the worn and softened look of the farmhouse trend starts to look good in our urban spaces.

Watch this decorating style slowly morph from a poor/humble look to an upscale look with fancy antiques being thrown in for prosperity.

Planet-friendly shopping tactics

Is shopping in bulk better for the planet?
- Sunitha, Hamilton

QUEEN OF GREEN
Tovah Paglaro
green@metronews.ca

The benefits to shopping in bulk are many — you save yourself a few trips down the supermarket aisles, the pantry is always full, the financial savings are substantial and, of course, it's a planet-friendly shopping tactic.

The math is relatively simple. Fewer trips to the supermarket translate into less gas being used. That means fewer emissions going out and more money staying in.

Buying in bulk also saves the producer and supplier the costs of packaging, shipping, shelving, storing and selling you a product multiple times. It's self-evident how that translates into financial benefits for you.

Consider also the environmental benefit.

- Less packaging means reduced waste and minimized shelf space requirements.

- Less shelf space demand means the potential for smaller storefronts with smaller electrical and heating needs.

- Less shipping means fewer emissions. The same amount of food still has to make its way to you, but buying in bulk streamlines the process.

Purchasing food in bulk has other benefits that support a green lifestyle.

Supporting local farmers

Many bulk purchases are made directly from local food producers, with increased financial benefits to the people in your community responsible for feeding you.

These might include fruit or vegetable farmers, cattle farmers, grain producers like Anita's Organics or even dairies.

Creating community around food

There's nothing I like better than bringing communities together around food and buying in bulk can also support this.

Food waste is a concern that looms over large purchases.

What if we don't eat or process it all before it starts to spoil? For some, space is a constraining factor. These barriers are addressed by pooling resources and sharing bulk orders with your neighbours.

Bulk foods are whole food ingredients. Purchasing ingredients — instead of prefabricated meals or snacks — allows you the opportunity to cook from scratch.

That means wholesome, delicious meals that live up to your ideals for sustainable food. No preservatives. No food sitting in plastic packaging. No supporting food producers lobbying against the mandatory labelling of GMO ingredients.

Buying in bulk has many benefits to you, your community and the larger environment. If it's a new step, start small.

Choose one area — maybe oats and flours — and set up a system that works for you. Once it's routine, you'll be hooked and you will unquestionably expand into other foods.

Is your home pet-ready?

Introducing a pet into your home may not be as difficult as you think.

"Pets enrich our lives and bring happiness to our homes, but careful preparation is necessary for such a commitment," says Steve Gray, a broker with Royal LePage Kelowna in B.C. "You can make the process easier with a few helpful tips." Gray recommends the following:

Consider a crate for your pet
Most pets do not come trained and they certainly don't know what's safe to chew.

By crating your pet when you are away, you ensure that your possessions are left intact and your pet's safety is put first.

In addition to protecting your belongings, crating your pet will encourage good behaviour during the most formative years.

Secure your kitchen cabinets

There are many kitchen items that are deadly to animals.

Contact your veterinarian for a list of these products and secure your cabinets with child-proof locks. Keep your trash can tightly lidded.

Make sure your heating and air vents have adequate covers

If you are bringing home a "pocket pet," such as a hamster or guinea pig, you may be surprised at the tiny areas your new friend can squeeze into.

By placing closely-grated covers on your vents, you ensure the safety of your pet. You also prevent fur and hair from clogging your air ducts and decreasing your home's overall efficiency. These tips can make the transition much less complicated.

Dining with Bayou Billionaires

TV. Kitten Dowden and her family are invading the small screen. Before they do, she shares her kitchen secrets

life@metronews.ca

A short while ago, the Dowdens were like a lot of other hard-working Shreveport, La. families — pinching pennies and balancing budgets.

Now they're hiring personal trainers and exploring new business ventures on CMT's Bayou Billionaires after discovering their home sits on the fourth largest deposit of natural gas in the United States.

At the head of the family are Kitten and Gerald Dowden, who lead their brood of kids, grandkids and Kitten's 90-year-old father, Grandpa — an old-fashioned ladies' man.

Aside from enjoying their fortune, the Dowdens do some serious cooking — think gumbo, jambalaya, crawfish bisque, blackened chicken, red beans, bread pudding and more.

Kitten tells us her cooking secrets, family food traditions and shares a recipe from her own kitchen.

How important is it for your family to eat together?

I've always preached to my kids that families should have dinner together every night of their lives. That's the problem with family units these days — they don't all sit together and have dinner.

Are there any food traditions that the Dowdens practice?

I always tell my girls that you should always leave something on your plate. That's a little etiquette tip for the girls.

Who is the best cook in the family? The worst? Why?

I am the best cook, absolutely. I've cooked all my life. My mom and my grandmothers showed me everything and I loved to watch and learn. The worst cook would have to be my daddy. He burns everything and he always makes a big mess.

What are some of the most

Kitten and Gerald Dowden star in Bayou Billionaires, after discovering their home sits on the fourth largest natural gas deposit in the United States. SUBMITTED #### common ingredients you cook with?

A lot of spice, peppers, butter and bacon grease.

What are the most popular bayou dishes?

The most popular are anything with crawfish such as gumbo, étouffée and Jambalaya.

What does alligator taste like?

I think alligator tastes like chicken and Gerald says it tastes like pork. The texture is like pork, but it tastes like chicken.

Dinner. Spicy Sausage and Crawfish Jambalaya

1. Heat oil in large pot.

2. Season sausage and crawfish with Cajun seasoning. Set aside.

3. In pot with heated oil, sauté onion, bell pepper, celery and garlic until tender. Stir in crushed tomatoes and season with red pepper, black pepper, salt, hot pepper sauce, Worcestershire sauce

Ingredients

- 2 tbsp oil
- 10 to 12 oz Andouille sausage or smoked sausage, sliced bite size
- 1 1/2 cups crawfish tails (approx)
- 1 tbsp Cajun seasoning
- 1 onion, chopped
- 1 small bell pepper, chopped
- 2 stalks celery, chopped
- 3 cloves garlic, chopped
- 1 16 oz. can crushed tomatoes
- 1/2 tsp red pepper flakes
- 1/2 tsp black pepper
- 1 tsp salt
- 1/2 tsp hot pepper sauce
- 2 tsp Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tsp filé powder
- 1 1/4 cup uncooked white rice
- 2 1/2 cup chicken broth

and filé powder.

4. Stir in sausage and crawfish. Cook a few minutes, stirring occasionally.

5. Stir in rice and chicken broth. Bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer 20 to 30 minutes until liquid absorbed and rice is tender. I like chopped green onions on top. Check taste to see if it needs salt.

Cranberries star in perfect-for-brunch scones

This recipe makes 12 scones. THE CANADIAN PRESS H/O

Not only are these scones delicious, but since they're studded with the jewel tones of Canadian-grown cranberries, they're perfect for entertaining.

1. Heat oven to 220 C (425 F). Line 1 or 2 large baking sheets with parchment paper.

2. In a glass measuring cup or a bowl, stir lemon juice into milk; set aside.

3. In a large bowl, combine 675 ml (2 3/4 cups) flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Using pastry blender or two knives, cut in butter until mixture is crumbly. Pour in milk mixture; stir with a fork until a soft, sticky dough forms.

4. Turn out onto a floured surface and, with floured hands, gently knead in cranberries, being careful not to crush them and adding more flour to prevent sticking as necessary, until dough comes together and cranberries are dispersed. Pat out to a 23-cm (9-inch) circle; cut into 12 wedges. Place on prepared baking sheet at least 2.5 cm (1 inch) apart.

5. Topping: Brush tops of scones with milk and sprinkle with sugar. Bake for 15 to 20 minutes, switching pans on racks halfway if using 2 sheets, or until puffed and golden. Let cool for at least 10 minutes before serving. THE CANADIAN PRESS/DAIRY FARMERS OF CANADA 2013 MILK CALENDAR, MILKCALENDAR.CA

Hoaxster tells Dr. Phil he was in love with Te'o

Dr. Phil McGraw says Ronaiah Tuiasosopo, who masterminded the dead girlfriend hoax involving Manti Te'o, told him the Notre Dame linebacker was not involved in the scheme and that he ended up falling "deeply, romantically" in love with the football player.

McGraw spoke on the Today show Wednesday, previewing an interview he did with Tuiasosopo, a 22-year-old California man who created the fictional woman Te'o knew as Lennay Kekua. Tuiasosopo's interview with McGraw will air in two parts on the Dr. Phil Show starting Thursday.

"There were many times where Manti and Lennay had broken up. But something would bring them back together whether it was something going on in his life, or in Lennay's life, in this case in my life," Tuiasosopo said.

Sens halt Habs' win streak at four games

Daniel Alfredsson's first goal of the season proved to be the winner as the Ottawa Senators routed the Montreal Canadiens 5-1 on Wednesday night.

Jim O'Brien, Mika Zibanejad, Chris Phillips and Chris Neil also scored for the Senators (5-1-1), who got 31 saves from Craig Anderson.

Tomas Plekanec scored for Montreal (4-2-0), which saw its four-game winning streak come to an end.

Jets vs. Habs could be budding rivalry

THE HOCKEY NEWS
Rory Boylen
winnipeg@metronews.ca

It's tough for a team like the Jets to generate a natural rivalry. Over time and through playoff appearances they will indelibly develop. At the moment, the Jets are cast-offs — a team caught between divisions and conferences that hasn't yet stepped into the rivalry incubator known as the post-season.

But those Montreal Canadiens made a good case Tuesday night.

Two teams on the rise, two teams in need of a top eight finish. Two Canadian teams — two Canadian teams with electric arenas and rabid fans.

Both the Jets and Habs are in relatively the same position. They're past the point of a complete rebuild and have decent pieces in place to keep them in the running for the playoffs. There will be no trading away of top talents for futures from these two because the all-important second season is in reach. They can smell it.

And when you have a dynamic forward such as Evander Kane who will not shy away from any physical play and skates to destroy all doubters, up against an unassuming bruising blue-liner in Alex Emelin who feeds off the bodycheck, you have an immediate flash point. Add in the animated P.K. Subban, who was absent from Wednesday's game as his holdout came to a conclusion, plus Zach Bogosian, and the hate will hatch.

Sometime in the near future the NHL will realign Winnipeg out of its silly Southeast position and into a much more geographically friendly one. It may even move them back out West.

As long as they're situated this way in the NHL landscape, it will be hard for Winnipeg to nurture a rivalry with any team. It will never truly exist with Washington, Carolina or either of the Florida-based teams. It has to be a northern team that is, in some relation, closer to home and closer on the development and demand curves.

That team could be Montreal, if the two are allowed to continue to compete head-on.

Flash point

Harbaughs to visit defeated son

Jack and Jackie Harbaugh still don't know where they'll be sitting during the Super Bowl.

They do know where they'll be after the game.

The parents of John and Jim Harbaugh say they'll visit with each of their sons after the San Francisco 49ers and Baltimore Ravens play in Sunday's Super Bowl. The Harbaughs say it will be the son on the losing end who is likely to need his parents more.

That was their experience last Thanksgiving, when John's Ravens beat Jim's 49ers.

No matter the outcome, Jackie Harbaugh says she and her husband will hug both their sons "and tell them we're proud of them and their team."

Judge rejects Jerry Sandusky's plea for new trial

Jerry Sandusky lost a bid for a new trial Wednesday when a judge rejected his argument that his lawyers were not given enough time to prepare for the three-week proceeding that ended with a 45-count guilty verdict on child sex abuse charges.

Judge John Cleland's 27-page order said lawyers for the former Penn State assistant football coach conceded that their post-trial review turned up no material that would have changed their trial strategy.

"The defendant's attorneys subjected the commonwealth's witnesses to meaningful and effective cross-examination, presented evidence for the defence and presented both a comprehensive opening statement and a clearly developed closing argument," Cleland wrote.

He also rejected post-sentencing motions regarding jury instructions, hearsay testimony and a comment by the prosecution during closing arguments that referred to the fact that Sandusky, who did not testify at trial, gave media interviews after he was arrested in November 2011. # Lewis says he 'never, ever' used deer-antler spray

Super Bowl lead-up. Ravens linebacker was linked in report to company making PEDs

Smiling, even laughing, at questions about a report linking him to a company that purports to make performance-enhancers, Baltimore Ravens linebacker Ray Lewis said Wednesday he "never, ever took" the stuff.

Lewis described himself as "agitated," not angry, that the story has become part of the Super Bowl-week prelude to Baltimore's game against the San Francisco 49ers on Sunday.

He added that he's certain his teammates won't be distracted by the report in Sports Illustrated. The magazine said Lewis sought help from a company that says its deer-antler spray and pills contain a banned product connected to human growth hormone. The 37-year-old Lewis is the leading tackler in the NFL post-season since returning from a torn right triceps that sidelined him for 10 games.

In a private conversation with Ravens head coach John Harbaugh, and later in the public setting of a news conference, Lewis distanced himself from Sports With Alternatives To Steroids (SWATS). SI reported that company owner Mitch Ross recorded a call with Lewis hours after the player hurt his arm in an October game against Dallas. According to the report, Lewis asked Ross to send him deer-antler spray and pills, along with other items made by the company.

"It's so funny of a story because I never, ever took what he says or whatever I was supposed to do. And it's just sad once again that someone can have this much attention on a stage this big, where the dreams are really real," Lewis said Wednesday. "I don't need it. My teammates don't need it. The 49ers don't need it. Nobody needs it." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cycling. Public 'lynching' isn't the way to deal with doping crisis: Armstrong

Lance Armstrong believes a truth and reconciliation program is the "only way" to deal with cycling's doping crisis and the sport's governing body should have no role in the process.

Armstrong spoke to Cyclingnews in an interview published Wednesday, his first since admitting to Oprah Winfrey two weeks ago that he doped to win the Tour de France seven times.

In an email interview with the British-based cycling publication, Armstrong expressed no remorse or contrition and said he feels like a scapegoat for a sport in which no generation was ever "clean."

Armstrong said the best way forward is a truth and reconciliation process offering amnesty to riders and officials who come forward.

"It's not the best way, it's the only way," he said. "As much as I'm the eye of the storm this is not about one man, one team, one director. This is about cycling and to be frank it's about all endurance sports."

"Publicly lynching one man and his team will not solve this problem."

Asked if he felt like a fall guy, Armstrong said: "Actually, yes I do. But I understand why. We all make the beds we sleep in."

In his interview with Winfrey, Armstrong said he would be willing to take part in any truth and reconciliation process.

He told Cyclingnews the program should be run by the World Anti-Doping Agency and not the U.S. Anti-Doping Agency, the body which produced a scathing report detailing systematic doping by Armstrong and his teams. The USADA report led to Armstrong being stripped of his seven Tour titles and banned from elite sport for life.

Asked why he would not speak to USADA, Armstrong said: "No brainer. This is a global sport not an American one." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Partnership issues will be a bit messy today and they will stay messy until someone makes a decision to sort things out. You know what is coming: That person will have to be you. You're the only one with any drive.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Cosmic activity at the midheaven angle of your chart means you have the power to make things happen, but it also means you will have to overcome opposition from rivals. Be brave and take the fight to them.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

With the Sun now moving through the most adventurous area of your chart, there is no way you will stay in one place for any length of time. Go where your instincts take you and don't worry that others might not approve.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

You will find yourself drawn to someone who is new to your social scene and you will quickly form a bond that cannot be broken. But don't neglect existing relationships — friends and family are relying on you.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

A confrontation of some sort is likely today but that's good because you need to clear the air. Most of all, you need to let certain people know that you are not the sort who can be bad-mouthed without fighting back.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

The planets warn if you don't treat what you are working on with more respect you will make a poor job of it, which in turn will reflect badly on you. All tasks are important, even the small ones.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

There is no point in trying to hide your feelings because your face will betray you. If there is something you feel strongly about, come right out with it and let everyone know why you are suddenly so emotional. It will do you some good.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

What goes around comes around and what you have to put up with today is most likely payback for something you said or did in the past. It's not some kind of cosmic punishment, it's just the way things work.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You will rush here, there and everywhere today, and most likely get nowhere fast. The planets are trying to tell you that if you slow down a bit, you will accomplish more in the long-term. Try listening.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Make it your aim today, and over the remainder of the week, to improve your professional and financial relationships. Show others you care about them as people and they'll show you what they can do for you.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

The old always gives way to the new, so there really is no point holding on to what even you can now see is past its sell-by date. Take a few risks and move with the times. What have you got to lose?

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

The more open and outgoing you are now, the more you will achieve a few weeks hence when the Sun begins its transit of your birth sign. What good is life if it is not an adventure? Time to explore!
